There was a wild rush for the life-preservers, and many of the men among the passengers exhibited the most shameful cowardice. They snatched the life-preservers from the women in some cases, and some are said to have secured two or three for themselves, refusing to give them up to others who had none. Fortunately there were enough to go around, and it a jew minutes everybody was provided with a preserver.

Most of the passengers gathered on the forward dock, while the flames were cracking flercely in the light woodwork in the centre of the roof of the main saloon.

Capt. Wilcox had ordered his crew to man the pumps and the pilot was directed to head the boat directly for the Connecticut shore and to keep within three minutes' run of the beach.

beach.
The steamer was then nearly opposite Norwalk.

There was some delay in getting the pumps to work, they having been out of use for a long time. After a stream was turned on the flames it was nearly half an hour before they were extinguished. The fire was confined to the woodwork around the tunnel and was hard to get at.

Meanwhile the suspense and anxiety among the passengers had been terrible. It required all the efforts of Capt. Wilcox and his officers to prevent some or them from throwing themselves overboard. Even when it was announced that the fire was out and that the danger was over they could not be persuaded to take off the lice-preservers, but kept them on anoth the steamboat reached her landing at Bridgeport.

Neal, the Brother of Outlaw Bob, on a Mission of Revenge. on a Mission of Revenge.

Mosiles, Ala., Dec. 28.—Terrible scenes are being enacted in Choctaw County. The citi-zens are wrought up to such a pitch of excitable ment that a war of extermination is being waged against the family and followers of the lately lynched outlaw, Bob Sims.

The most alarming thing about the situation is that Neal Sims, the orother of Bob, and who rescued Bob from the Deputy Marshall at Bladon Springs, in Choctaw County, Aug. 20 last, is still at large and determined to avenge Bob's death on the slayers of his brothers.

Neal is a desperate man. He firmly believes that his brother was a prophet from God and has dilume sanction to kill off the devil's a that his brother was a prophet from God and has dilume sanction to kill off the devil's agents, namely, the officers of the law.
